Obituary

MRS K. C. ROBERTS Contributed

On Friday last a private cablegram brought the news of the death in England of Mrs K. C. Roberts (nee Miss Margaret R. Turnbull). A few days before, her family and friends were rejoicing over the birth of her first child.

The blow has fallen with tragic force upon her own family, but a very wide circle of friends is also stricken with grief. Only a short while ago she moved in university and scholastic circles, full of radiant life, hut now she has passed to " where beyond these voices there is peace." Her primary education was ob-tained at the George Street and Arthur Street Schools. From the latter she went with a Harrop scholarship to the Otago Girls' High School, and there did very well in studies. At the Otago Uni-versity, where she specialised in science and mathematics, she obtained the M.Sc degree. Her first appointment was in her old school, the Otago Girls' High School. Here she took a keen interest in the life of the girls, who were sorry, when she left for the Dunedin Teachers' Training College to be tutor and lib- rarian. The students knew that in Miss Turnbull they had a real friend. Of a most attractive personal appearance and of a rare winsomeness of nature, she soon was deeply loved. Students and staff expressed their feelings of appre-ciation on her departure for London to marry Dr K. C. Roberts, of King's College.

To mention Miss Turnbull's name to her contemporaries, at the University or to those, who, were fortunate enough to associate with her at the Training Col-ego was to call forth expressions of admiration and deep attachment. Two short years of married life -years of joy, years full of the zest of living, and then what seems the great eclipse - herein is the riddle that human minds fail to read. How young she was in years and in spirit, but life's real measure is not mere length of days. It is ever true: " He liveth long who liveth well." Mrs Roberts, judged by that standard, had lived long. For into many a life she had brought love and friendship. The present writer knew her well, and ever associated with her the two, words " Love " and " Life." Her whole nature seemed charged with these, and out of her abundance she ministered, receiving back good measure into her own heart.

" So with face lit with delight,

Yet to press their blinds and say: Thanks !

So find a time Good night ! "
